ENJOYED THE EXPERIENCE DESPITE MANY HARDSHIPS

Report That Leader's Intention Is to Continue His Work in the New Land.

NOME, Alaska, August 16 .- Six mem bers of the Vilhjalmur Stefanson arctic expedition who arrived here yesterday related their experiences in the polar regions during the last three years. They said Stefanson, who remained in the arctic to continue his work of exploring newly discovered land north ferred to E. S. McCalmont as special for the prince Patrick Land, probably would not return to civilization during the present season.

from civilization.

Most of the time since the spring of 1914 the party has been in quarters at Bernard harbor on Coronation gulf east of the Mackenzie river, one of the least known sections of the habitable arth.

The last member of the party to see The last member of the party to see Stefansson was the photographer, Wilchens, who was one of those who departed from the ill-fated Karluk shortly before that vessel was carried away in the grip of the northern ice in the fall of 1918 and later crushed near Herald Islands. Wilkins was with Stefansson last winter, having rejoined him last year. After spending some time with the Stefansson party, Wilkins made the trip over the ice to Coronation gulf and joined the Anderson party.

Conduct Scientific Work.

Most of the scientific work of the expedition has been carried on by this ranch party. The first winter after leaving Nome the party spent at Maning point, near Camden bay, after having failed to find a passage through the heavy ice to the eastward. The following spring Dr. Anderson proceeded to the east and reached Coronation gulf during the summer of 1914. Quarters which were established in Bernard harbor became the base for the expedition's work. The summer and winter of 1915 were spent in scientific labors around Coronation gulf.

The party left Coronation gulf for Bering sea in June of this year, and the southward passage was attended by no difficulties. Although traveling in the track of the power schooners Teddy Bear and Challenge, Dr. Anderson saw hothing of these vessels.

Mr. Wilkins learned from Stefansson that the new land which the explorer discovered may be described as a second Greenland. leaving Nome the party spent at Manicross the frozen sea with Storker S. Storkerson and Ole Anderson, the explorer traced about 200 miles of its whore line and found high mountains upon it. Mr. Wilkins says that it was Stefansson's intention to return to the new land last spring to continue the work of exploration.

The Alaska brings about thirty tons of specimens gathered during the years upon in the north, in addition to a mass of data of great value from a scientific standpoint. They have been unloaded and will later be shipped to Ottawa, where the final results of the expedition will be completed. Most of the Alaska party will proceed to the states, but Dr. Anderson may return horth to continue his investigations.
